Stallion Alamshar Passes Away

JBBA stallion Alamshar (Key of Luck - Alaiyda) passed away due to the infirmities of old age on August 20 at the age of 26. The pensioned stallion was a resident of the JBBA's Shizunai Stallion station on the northern island of Hokkaido.

During his racing career, Alamshar proved himself a top-class racehorse, winning multiple G1 races including the Irish Derby and the King George VI & Queen Elizabeth Diamond S in His Highness the Aga Khan's colors.

Alamshar entered stud in Japan at the JBBA Shizunai Stallion Station in 2004. After standing at multiple locations in Japan with the JBBA, he was pensioned from stallion duties following the 2017 breeding season. As a stallion, he made his presence felt as a broodmare sire in Japan from a modest number of offspring.
